District of Columbia's Death with Dignity Act

Medical aid in dying is the practice in which a terminally ill, mentally capable adult patient voluntarily requests and receives a prescription medication from a physician that they can self-administer to die peacefully. This allows patients to end their lives on their own terms. Medical aid in dying is authorized in 14 jurisdictions with regulations varying by jurisdiction to ensure that the process is carried out ethically and safely.

The D.C. Death with Dignity Act authorizes the practice of medical aid in dying, allowing a terminally ill, mentally capable adult with six months or less to live to request from their doctor a prescription for medication that the patient can decide to self-ingest to die peacefully.

The D.C. Death with Dignity Act went into effect on February 18, 2017 with and was implemented in June, 2017.

Eligibility

To be eligible to use the law, the individual must be:

- > An adult (aged 18 or older)
- > Terminally ill with a prognosis of six months or less to live
- > Mentally capable of making their own healthcare decisions
- > Able to self-administer the medication through an affirmative, conscious, voluntary act to ingest it. Self-administration does not include injection or infusion via a vein or any other parenteral route by any person, including the healthcare provider, family member, or patient themselves

The patient must also be:

- > A resident of the District of Columbia
- > Capable of self-ingesting the aid-in-dying medication
- > Capable of making an informed decision and voluntary request

A person is not eligible for medical aid in dying solely because of age or disability.

Summary of process to obtain medical aid in dying

Two D.C. physicians must confirm the patient's eligibility to use the D.C. Death with Dignity Act, as well as confirm the patient is making an informed decision and voluntarily requesting the aid-in-dying medication. The attending physician prescribes the medication, and the consulting physician confirms eligibility, capacity, and voluntariness. (An attending physician is described as a physician who has primary responsibility for care of the individual and their disease.)

If either physician questions the patient's mental capacity in making the request, a mental health professional (psychiatrist or psychologist) must evaluate the patient to ensure that they are capable of making their own healthcare decisions before a prescription can be written.

The patient may change their mind at any time and withdraw their request, or choose not to take the medication.

Making a request

The patient must make three requests to their attending physician to use the D.C. Death with Dignity Act: two verbal requests and one written one. The written request is made via the Request for Medication form, which is found in this packet (see p. 18). Only the patient can make these requests; they cannot be made through an advance directive or by a family member or friend. The requests must be made to a physician, not office staff. Please see the "Steps" section of this document (on p. 5) for details.

Medication

The type and dosage of aid-in-dying medication doctors prescribe, including medications to prevent nausea and vomiting, varies with each individual. The medication cannot be injected. The patient must be able to ingest the medication without assistance, usually by swallowing or by using a feeding tube. The prescribing physician must send the prescription directly to the pharmacy. The pharmacy will NOT accept a prescription directly from a patient. The physician or healthcare system will give the patient the name of suitable pharmacies. A designated family member or friend may pick up the medications.

If anyone, whether a patient, family member, or healthcare provider, has questions, they can contact Compassion & Choices' free and confidential Call Compassion line at 800.247.7421 for information and support.

The patient may ask their provider or pharmacy about the cost of these medications. Some insurance policies cover the cost of the medication and/or the physician visits. Please contact the insurance provider to find out what the policy covers.

Unused medication

There is no obligation to take the medication, even after the prescription has been filled. If the person who was prescribed the medication does not use it, it should be disposed of in accordance with state and federal law. Please note it is illegal to use another person's medication.

To safely discard unused medication:

- > Do NOT flush down the toilet, sink or other drain
- > Remove all personal information on bottle labels and medicine packaging
- > Use the following website to search for other authorized drug collection/disposal locations near you:
<https://www.fda.gov/drugs/disposal-unused-medicines-what-you-should-know/drug-disposal-drug-take-back-locations>
- > Contact the pharmacist who filled the prescription for more assistance.

Death certificates

Death certificates for medical aid in dying comply with guidelines provided by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). When a terminally ill person dies using medical aid in dying, the underlying terminal disease is listed as the cause of death on the death certificate, (for example, cancer, ALS). In addition, the law states life insurance policies and other post-death benefits are not affected by utilizing the Death with Dignity Act. The sale, procurement, or issuance of a life, health, or accident insurance or annuity policy, or the rate charged for such a policy, may not be conditioned upon or affected by an individual's act of making or rescinding a request for medical aid in dying.

Steps for accessing medical aid in dying in Washington D.C.

The first step is to speak with your doctor to discuss your interest in medical aid in dying. Be sure to be explicit in your discussion, and ask if they will support this option by writing a prescription. Review the “Talking With Your Physician” section of this packet (see p. 7) for prompts you can use to begin your discussion.

If you are considering medical aid in dying, it is also a good time to think about any additional planning that you may need to begin, including consideration of hospice enrollment.

Note: Hospice is a specialized service (covered by insurance and Medicare), providing wonderful individualized support to people at the end of their lives. Those eligible for medical aid in dying are also eligible to receive hospice services. Many hospice organizations have a policy regarding medical aid in dying, so it is important to review and discuss that policy if enrolled in hospice and pursuing this option. Visit candc.org/hospice-care for more information.

If your doctor says “no” to supporting this option:

If your physician decides not to participate, or is unable to, you should ask for a referral to another clinician who has chosen to participate. If additional assistance is needed, some health systems offer the support of a care navigator or social worker to assist with resources and referrals. If your doctor does not provide a referral, or your health system does not allow medical aid in dying, you may consider establishing care with a system or facility that will support you in medical aid in dying.

Don't be afraid to advocate for the end-of-life experience you want. For more information and resources, visit candc.link/personal-advocacy.

Compassion & Choices' Call Compassion team is available to offer personalized support, resources, and general information at no cost. You can contact Call Compassion at 800.247.7421, messages are typically returned within 1–2 business days. Language interpreter services are available.

If your doctor says “yes” to supporting this option:

1. Make two verbal requests for a prescription for aid-in-dying medication directly to the attending physician. Ask the physician to make sure these requests are documented in your medical record. These two verbal requests must be separated by at least 15 calendar days.
2. In addition to an attending physician, a consulting physician must confirm eligibility, capacity, voluntariness, and that the patient is making both an informed decision and voluntary request.
3. Give your doctor a written request for medical aid in dying that is signed by you and two witnesses. Please read the form carefully to determine who may or may not be a witness. The form must be submitted to the attending physician before the patient makes their second oral request and at least 48 hours before a covered medication may be prescribed or dispensed.
4. The prescription must be sent directly to the pharmacy by the prescribing physician, not by you, a family member or friend. The pharmacy may need time to order the medication.
5. The minimum amount of time the process can take, from the first request to the written prescription, is 17 days. However, for many people it takes considerably longer. We encourage people who are interested in using medical aid in dying as one of their end-of-life care options to start talking to their healthcare providers well in advance.
6. Pick up your prescription OR have it mailed to you OR have a designated person pick it up for you. The patient does not need to pay for the medication until the prescription is filled. The pharmacist will go over the medication details with you and let you know what to do with it if you do not end up taking it. You may also choose to keep it on file at the pharmacy if and until you decide to use it.
7. Planning for the day of ingestion is also important to do during this time, and allows your healthcare team and loved ones to support you as you wish. This could include discussing who you want to present, what kind of sounds or smells you would like to experience, managing symptoms prior to ingestion, and what you would like the day to feel like. This is also a good time to review or discuss final arrangements.

8. When the time has come, you can take the medication if you still feel it is necessary. You may always decline to take the medication, at any time.

Talking with your physician

The process to access medical aid in dying can take weeks and sometimes months. We encourage people to start the process early. You don't have to wait until you're sick to ask your doctor if they would support you in accessing medical aid in dying if you should become eligible for it. Your provider may not be familiar with the D.C. Death with Dignity Act itself, and may have some questions; see information about our Call Compassion line at the end of this section for a resource you can share.

Some people feel anxious about discussing end-of-life issues with their physicians, but doing so will enable you to have an end-of-life care experience consistent with your values. If you are uncomfortable with talking to your doctor about this, you can bring a friend to help you or start the conversation in writing. It is important to make sure you are able to access the end of life care you want.

Providers and health systems are allowed to opt out of providing medical aid in dying, so it's important to make sure that you are able to access it.

No one but you can make this request. It is important to speak directly with the clinician; do not ask the office staff, nurse or physician's assistant, or leave a request on voicemail. Below are some examples of ways to ask your doctor about their ability to support you in a way that aligns with your values.

Language for someone who DOES NOT have a terminal illness:

- > Though I am not currently facing a terminal illness, access to the option of medical aid in dying, if I were to qualify, is important to me. I would like to know if you/this hospital system would support that decision to access the Death with Dignity Act.
- > I want to live with as much quality as possible for as long as I can, and I've thought long and hard about what I want my end-of-life experience to look like. If I ever meet the legal requirements, I would like to have the option of using the Death with Dignity Act. Is that something you would be able to support me in seeking?

- > I hope you will honor my decisions and respect my values, as I respect yours. Will you write a prescription for aid-in-dying medication in accordance with the Death with Dignity Act when I am eligible? If you are not able to honor that request, I would like to find out now.

Language for someone who DOES have a terminal illness:

- > I have thought about this for quite some time, and am interested in accessing the Death with Dignity Act. Is this a decision that you would support me in?
- > I want to die the way I've lived: on my own terms. That's why I'm interested in the Death with Dignity Act. It's my understanding that in order to initiate the process, I need to first make a verbal request. Could you please document my verbal request today and place a referral to hospice?

Whether your provider elects to participate in your medical aid in dying process or not, it is important to ask that your request be recorded in your medical record.

End-of-life care planning checklist

Please visit the Compassion & Choices website for more resources at CompassionAndChoices.org/plan.

Many people postpone making arrangements for healthcare at the end of life. Planning ahead allows individuals to spend their final days with friends and family while focusing on the present. Informing loved ones of wishes ahead of time relieves them of the possible burden of making decisions about your final arrangements.

Please consider whether any of the following are appropriate for your situation:

- Discuss your wishes with family and loved ones
- Discuss your wishes with your provider(s) and healthcare team
- Provide a copy of your current Advance Directive to
 - Healthcare Provider(s)
 - Healthcare entity (such as your local hospital system)
 - Agent named as surrogate decision maker
 - Hospice team (if applicable)
- Create and/or locate important documents
 - Advance Directive or Living Will
 - Durable Power of Attorney for Healthcare
 - Durable Power of Attorney for Finances
 - Last Will and Testament
 - Compassion & Choices has partnered with Free Will to offer this documentation at no cost, available at: CandC.org/ways-to-give/free-will
 - Living Trust
 - Life Insurance policies (with beneficiary information)
 - Information for financial accounts, assets property
 - Information for final arrangements, funeral plans, prepaid services
- Ensure important documents are up to date and reflect your current wishes
- Name a guardian for children, pets

Glossary

Advance care planning

A continuous process of conversation and documentation to clarify and communicate a person's preferences for future medical care, values, and goals. Ideally, these conversations happen before a health crisis and are revisited as circumstances and needs change over time. Advance care planning can include completing documents such as a living will, health care proxy (or medical durable power of attorney), do not resuscitate order (DNR), portable medical orders, or a dementia directive, which vary by state. But the conversations themselves have value regardless of whether any forms are filled out.

Advance directive

A general term for any document that contains instructions pertaining to a person's wishes related to medical treatment if they cannot make care decisions on their own. An advance directive can include a living will, a health care proxy (or medical durable power of attorney), and other documents that vary by state. Note: in some states and among some professionals, "advance directive" and "living will" are used interchangeably. See also "living will" below.

Find state specific advance directives on Compassion & Choices' website at:

CompassionAndChoices.org/our-issues/advance-care-planning

Attending healthcare provider

A healthcare provider — typically a physician, advanced practice registered nurse, or physicians' associate — who has primary responsibility for a person's care and treatment. In the context of medical aid in dying, the attending healthcare provider is the clinician who writes the prescription for aid-in-dying medication. Some medical aid in dying laws use different terms, such as "prescribing provider" or "treating provider," and eligibility to serve in this role varies by state. Note that "attending" carries different meanings in other care settings, such as hospitals and hospice.

Decision-making capacity

The ability to make informed choices about one's own medical care. To have decision-making capacity, a person must be able to understand the information their medical team provides, reason through their options, and communicate their choice. If a person loses decision-making capacity, their healthcare proxy can make decisions on their behalf based on what they would have wanted or documented in their advance care plan.

DNR

Stands for "do not resuscitate," a medical order instructing healthcare providers not to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) if a person stops breathing or their heart stops beating. A DNR is specific to CPR and does not limit other treatments, such as medication, surgery, or nutrition. Ideally, a DNR order is created before an emergency occurs, while the individual is mentally capable, or by their healthcare proxy if they are not.

Health care proxy

A person authorized to make health care decisions on another person's behalf if that person is unable to make their own. Also known as a representative, surrogate, agent, or medical durable power of attorney for health care, a health care proxy works closely with the health care team to ensure the patient's care and treatment preferences are followed. Choosing a health care proxy – and preparing them to advocate confidently for those wishes – is an important part of advance care planning. This role should be reviewed periodically as circumstances and relationships change.

Hospice

A program in which an interdisciplinary team of healthcare professionals provides comfort and support to people with a terminal illness who have chosen to focus on quality of life rather than curative treatment. Hospice can be provided wherever the person resides, most often at home, and is voluntary. It also involves and supports the individual's family and/or loved ones.

Life-sustaining treatment

Medical treatment intended to keep a person alive. Depending on the illness and the patient, life-sustaining treatment may include medication, surgically inserted assistive devices, respiratory support, and/or artificial nutrition and hydration.

Living will

A document that expresses a person's healthcare preferences if they become unable to speak for themselves. Note: in some states and among some professionals, "advance directive" and "living will" are used interchangeably. A living will can be one component of advance care planning (see "advance care planning" above).

Medical aid in dying

A safe, time tested, and trusted medical practice in which a terminally ill, mentally capable adult with a prognosis of six months or less to live may request from their healthcare provider a prescription for medication that they can choose to self-ingest to bring about a peaceful death. Where medical aid in dying is currently authorized, providers are required to confirm that a patient is fully informed and provide the patient with information about additional end-of-life options, including comfort care, hospice and pain control, before providing a prescription.

POLST/MOLST

Stands for Physician (or Medical) Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment. A medical order completed with a healthcare provider that provides detailed guidance about the wishes of a person with a serious illness for end-of-life care. Because it is a medical order (not simply a planning document) it carries immediate legal weight and is intended to guide care in an emergency. POLST is part of advance care planning. In many states, the form is printed on brightly colored paper so first responders can easily identify it in an emergency.

Palliative care

A form of medical support available to patients at any stage of illness or age, focused on comfort and quality of life. It can be provided alongside curative treatments or as the primary focus at end of life when a patient chooses to prioritize comfort over treatment. Rather than replacing other care, palliative care functions as an additional layer of support that helps patients and their families navigate complex medical situations.

Palliative sedation

Palliative sedation — also referred to as terminal sedation — is the continuous administration of intravenous or subcutaneous medication to relieve severe, intractable symptoms that cannot be otherwise controlled with less invasive interventions. Must be managed carefully by a medical team, often within a hospital setting.

Paramedic

An emergency responder who provides advanced medical care in the field. The specific procedures a paramedic can perform depend on local and state protocols.

Prognosis

Prognosis refers to the likely path of a disease and may include an estimated time an individual has left to live. Medical aid-in-dying laws and hospice eligibility require a prognosis of six months or less.

Terminally ill

When a disease or illness cannot be cured and is likely to lead to death, it is considered a terminal illness.

Voluntarily stop eating and drinking (VSED)

A legal option for any seriously ill individual with decision-making capacity, who wishes to shorten their dying process, by abstaining from foods and fluids of any kind, including artificial nutrition and/or hydration.

Request for medication form

The following form is provided by the District of Columbia.

REQUEST FOR MEDICATION TO END MY LIFE IN A HUMANE AND PEACEFUL MANNER

I, _____ am an adult of sound mind.
First (Please Print) Middle Last

I am suffering from _____, which my attending physician has determined is a terminal disease and which has been medically confirmed by a consulting physician.

I have been fully informed of my diagnosis, the nature of medication to be prescribed and potential associated risks, the expected result, and feasible alternatives, including comfort care, hospice care, and pain control.

I request that my attending physician prescribe medication that will end my life in a humane and peaceful manner.

Initial One

I have informed my family of my decision and taken their opinion into consideration.

I have decided not to inform my family of my decision.

I have no family to inform of my decision.

I understand that I have the right to rescind this request at any time.

I understand the full import of this request, and I expect to die when I take the medication to be prescribed. I further understand that although most deaths occur within three (3) hours of taking the medication to be prescribed, my death may take longer, and my physician has counseled me about this possibility.

I make this request voluntarily and without reservation, and I accept full moral responsibility for my actions.

I declare that I am of sound mind and not acting under duress, fraud, or undue influence and I am a District of Columbia resident.

Further, I am acknowledging that I am aware of District of Columbia Death with Dignity Act of 2016 (D.C. Official Code § 7-661.01 et seq.) and reviewed the Patient Education Module.
