THE RON SILVERIO/HEATHER BLOCK END OF LIFE OPTIONS ACT

Medical aid in dying is the practice in which a terminally ill, mentally competent adult patient voluntarily requests and receives a prescription medication from their healthcare provider that they can self-ingest to die peacefully on their own terms. Medical aid in dying is authorized in 12 U.S. jurisdictions with strict eligibility criteria and safeguards.

The Ron Silverio/Heather Block End-of-Life Options Act authorizes the practice of medical aid in dying, allowing a terminally ill, mentally capable adult with six months or less to live to request from their healthcare provider a prescription for medication that the patient can decide to self-ingest to die peacefully.

It was put into effect on May 20, 2025 after being signed into law by Governor Matt Meyer.

Eligibility

To be eligible to use the law, the individual must:

- > Be 18 years or older
- > Have been diagnosed with a terminal illness
- > Have a prognosis of six months or less to live
- > Be mentally capable of making their own healthcare decisions

The patient must also be:

- > A resident of Delaware
- > Capable of self-ingesting the aid-in-dying medication
- > Making an informed decision and voluntary request

A person is not eligible for medical aid in dying solely because of age or disability.

Summary of Process to Obtain Medical Aid in Dying

Two Delaware healthcare providers must confirm the patient's eligibility to use the Ron Silverio/Heather Block Delaware End of Life Options Act, as well as confirm that the patient is making an informed decision and voluntarily requesting the aid-in-dying medication. The attending healthcare provider prescribes the medication, and the consulting healthcare provider confirms eligibility, capacity, and voluntariness. In Delaware, an attending healthcare provider is described as a physician or advanced practice registered nurse (APRN) who has primary responsibility for care of the individual and their terminal illness.

If either healthcare provider questions the patient's ability to make an informed healthcare decision, they must refer to either a psychiatrist or psychologist to evaluate the patient. Medication cannot be prescribed until the psychiatrist or psychologist confirms capacity.

The patient may change their mind at any time and withdraw their request, or choose not to take the medication.

Making A Request

The patient must make three requests to their attending healthcare provider: two oral requests and one written request. An individual must make the second oral request no fewer than 15 days after making the first. An attending provider may not write a prescription less than 48 hours after the written request. The written request is the Request for Medication to End My Life in a Humane and Dignified Manner form, which will be found on the Delaware Department of Health and Social Services website once final regulations for the law have been promulgated.

Only the patient can make these requests; they cannot be made through an advance directive or by a healthcare proxy, family member or friend. The requests must be made directly to a healthcare provider, not office staff. Please see the "Steps" section of this document for more details.

Medication

The type and dosage of aid-in-dying medication healthcare providers prescribe, including medications to prevent nausea and vomiting, varies with each individual. The medication cannot be injected. The patient must be able to ingest the medication without assistance. The attending healthcare provider must send the prescription directly to the pharmacy. The pharmacy will NOT accept a prescription directly from a patient.

The licensed pharmacist will dispense the medication either in person or with a signature required on delivery, to the qualified patient, the attending healthcare provider, or to an individual expressly designated by the qualified patient.

If the prescribing healthcare provider has any questions about medications or participating pharmacies, the healthcare provider can call Compassion & Choices' free and confidential End of Life Consultation Service at 800.247.7421.

The patient may ask their provider or pharmacy about the cost of these medications. Some insurance policies may assist with the cost of the medication and/or the healthcare provider visits. Please contact the insurance provider to find out what your policy covers.

Unused Medication

There is no obligation to take the medication, even after the prescription has been filled. If the person who was prescribed and dispensed the medication does not use it, the medication should be disposed of in accordance with state and federal law. Please note it is illegal to use another person's medication.

To safely discard unused medication:

- > Do NOT flush down the toilet, sink or other drain
- > Remove all personal information on bottle labels and medicine packaging
- > Use the following website to search for other authorized drug collection/disposal locations near you:
<https://www.fda.gov/drugs/disposal-unused-medicines-what-you-should-know/drug-disposal-drug-take-back-locations>
- > Contact the pharmacist who filled the prescription for more assistance, if needed.

Death Certificates

Death certificates for medical aid in dying comply with guidelines provided by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). When a terminally ill person dies after utilizing medical aid in dying, the underlying terminal disease is listed on the death certificate as the cause of death (for example, cancer, ALS). In addition, the law states life insurance policies and other post-death benefits are not affected by utilizing the Ron Silverio/Heather Block End of Life Options Act. The sale, procurement, or issuance of a life, health, or accident insurance or annuity policy, or the rate charged for such a policy, may not be conditioned upon or affected by an individual's act of making or rescinding a request for medical aid in dying.

Steps for Accessing Medical Aid in Dying in Delaware

The first step is to speak with your healthcare provider to discuss your interest in medical aid in dying. Be sure to be explicit in your discussion, and ask if they will support this option by writing a prescription. Review the “Talking With Your Provider” section of this packet for prompts you can use to begin your discussion.

If you are considering medical aid in dying, it is also a good time to think about any additional planning that you may need to begin, including consideration of hospice enrollment.

Note: Hospice is a specialized service (covered by insurance and Medicare), providing individualized support to people at the end of their lives. Many hospice organizations have a policy regarding medical aid in dying, so it is important to review and discuss that policy if enrolled in hospice and pursuing this option.

If your healthcare provider says “no” to supporting this option:

If your provider decides not to participate, or is unable to, you should ask for a referral to another clinician who has chosen to participate. If additional assistance is needed, some health systems offer the support of a care navigator or social worker to assist with resources and referrals. If your provider does not provide a referral, or your health system does not allow medical aid in dying, you may consider establishing care with a system or facility that will support you in medical aid in dying.

Compassion & Choices’ End-of-Life Consultants are available to offer personalized support, resources and information at no cost. You can reach out to them via email at eolc@compassionandchoices.org or leave a voicemail at 800.247.7421; in both instances, consultants will respond to you in 1-2 business days. Language interpreter services are available.

If your healthcare provider says “yes” to supporting this option:

1. Make two verbal requests for a prescription for aid-in-dying medication directly to the attending healthcare provider. Ask the healthcare provider to make sure these requests are documented in the medical record. These two verbal requests must be separated by at least 15 days.
2. In addition to an attending healthcare provider, a consulting healthcare provider must confirm that the patient is eligible to use the law and that they are making both an informed decision and voluntary request.
3. Give your healthcare provider a written request for medical aid in dying that is signed by you and two witnesses. Please read the form carefully to determine who may or may not be a witness.
4. The prescription must be sent directly to a compounding pharmacy by the prescribing healthcare provider, not by the patient, a family member or friend. The pharmacy may need time to order the medication.
5. The minimum amount of time the process can take, from the first request to the written prescription, is fifteen days.. However, for many people it takes considerably longer. We encourage people who are interested in using medical aid in dying as one of their end-of-life care options to start talking to their healthcare providers well in advance.
6. Once the prescription is written, the patient may choose to keep it on file at the pharmacy until they decide they want to use the medication. The patient is still free to change their mind at any time, and may choose not to pick up or ingest the medication.
7. Planning for the day of ingestion is also important to do during this time, and allows your healthcare team and loved ones to support you as you wish. This could include discussing who you want to present, what kind of sounds or smells you would like to experience, managing symptoms prior to ingestion, and what you would like the day to feel like. This is also a good time to review or discuss final arrangements.
8. When the time has come, you can take the medication if you still feel it is needed. Your healthcare team will provide information about how to prepare and ingest the medication. You may always decline to take the medication at any point during the process.

Talking With Your Provider

The process to access medical aid in dying can take weeks, and sometimes months. We encourage people to start the discussion early. You don't have to wait until you're sick to ask your healthcare provider if they would support you in accessing medical aid in dying if you should become eligible for it. Your provider may not be familiar with the Ron Silverio/Heather Block Delaware End of Life Options Act itself, and may have some questions; see information about our End of Life Consultation Service at the end of this section for a resource you can share.

Some people feel anxious about discussing end-of-life issues with their provider, but doing so will enable you to have an end-of-life care experience consistent with your values. If you are uncomfortable with talking to your clinician about this, you can bring a friend to help you or start the conversation in writing. It is important to make sure you are able to access the end of life option you want.

Providers and health systems are allowed to opt out of providing medical aid in dying, so it's important to confirm with your providers that you are able to access this option under their care

No one but you can make this request. It is important to speak directly with your healthcare provider; do not ask the office staff, or leave a request on voicemail. Below are some examples of ways to ask your clinician about their ability to support you in a way that aligns with your values.

Language for someone who DOES NOT have a terminal illness:

- > Though I am not currently facing a terminal illness, the ability to access the option of medical aid in dying, if I were to qualify, is important to me. I would like to know if you/this hospital system would support that decision to access the Ron Silverio/Heather Block Delaware End of Life Options Act
- > I want to live with as much quality as possible for as long as I can, and I've thought long and hard about what I want my end-of-life experience to look like. If I ever meet the legal requirements, I would like to have the option of using the Ron Silverio/Heather Block Delaware End of Life Options Act. Is that something you would be able to support me in seeking?
- > I hope you will honor my decisions and respect my values, as I respect yours. Will you write a prescription for aid-in-dying medication in accordance with the Ron Silverio/Heather Block Delaware End of Life Options Act if I become eligible? If you are not able to honor that request, I would like to find out now.

Language for someone who DOES have a terminal illness:

- > I have thought about this for quite some time and am interested in accessing the Ron Silverio/Heather Block Delaware End of Life Options Act. Is this a decision that you would support me in?

- > I want to die the way I've lived: on my own terms. That's why I am interested in the Ron Silverio/Heather Block End of Life Options Act. It's my understanding that in order to initiate the process, I need to first make a verbal request. Could you please document my verbal request today?

Whether your provider elects to participate in your medical aid in dying process or not, it is important to ask that your request be recorded in your medical record.

Compassion & Choices End-of-Life Consultation Service provides free and confidential consultation to providers who have questions about end-of-life care options, including medical aid in dying. If your clinician is willing to participate but needs support, please refer them to the End-of-Life Consultation Service phone line at 800.247.7421. Tell them that a trained professional will return their call.

End-of-Life Care Planning Checklist

Please visit the Compassion & Choices website for more resources at CompassionAndChoices.org/plan.

Many people postpone making arrangements for healthcare at the end of life. Planning ahead allows individuals to spend their final days with friends and family while focusing on the present. Informing loved ones of wishes ahead of time relieves them of the possible burden of making decisions about your final arrangements.

Please consider whether any of the following are appropriate for your situation:

- ☐ Discuss your wishes with family and loved ones
- ☐ Discuss your wishes with your provider(s) and healthcare team
- ☐ Provide a copy of your current Advance Directive to:
 - ☐ Healthcare team and/or provider(s)
 - ☐ Healthcare entity
 - ☐ Anyone named as surrogate decision maker on your behalf
 - ☐ Hospice team (if applicable)
- ☐ Create and/or locate important documents:
 - ☐ Advance Directive or Living Will
 - ☐ Durable Power of Attorney for Healthcare
 - ☐ Durable Power of Attorney for Finances
 - ☐ Last Will and Testament
 - > Compassion & Choices has partnered with Free Will to offer this documentation at no cost, available at:
CompassionAndChoices.org/ways-to-give/free-will
 - ☐ Living Trust
 - ☐ Life Insurance policies (with beneficiary information)
 - ☐ Information for financial accounts, assets property
 - ☐ Information for final arrangements, funeral plans, prepaid services
- ☐ Ensure important documents are up to date and reflect your current wishes
- ☐ Name a guardian for children, pets

Glossary

advance care planning

Includes a person's living will, medical durable power of attorney (or health care proxy — see below), do not resuscitate, and portable medical orders. Called “advance” because it is ideally prepared prior to a health crisis in which it would guide medical care. Advance care planning documents vary by state and can include other documents, such as a dementia provision. See also “living will” below. Find state specific advance directives on Compassion & Choices' website at: CompassionAndChoices.org/our-issues/advance-care-planning

advance directive

A general term for any document that contains instructions pertaining to a person's wishes related to medical treatment if they can not make care decisions on their own. More information can be found here:

CompassionAndChoices.org/resource/putting-priorities-paper-advance-directive attending healthcare provider

An attending healthcare provider (a physician or an advanced practice registered nurse, such as a nurse practitioner or clinical nurse specialist) is defined as a healthcare provider who has primary responsibility for care of the individual and the treatment of their disease. In the medical aid in dying process, the attending healthcare provider is the healthcare provider who writes the prescription for aid-in-dying medication.

medical aid in dying

A safe, time tested, and trusted medical practice in which a terminally ill, mentally capable adult with a prognosis of six months or less to live may request from their healthcare provider a prescription for medication that they can choose to self-ingest to bring about a peaceful death. Where medical aid in dying is currently authorized, providers are required to confirm that a patient is fully informed and provide the patient with information about additional end-of-life options, including comfort care, hospice and pain control, before providing a prescription.

DNR

Stands for “do not resuscitate,” a medical order making clear an individual's request that no measures be taken to resuscitate them if their heart or breathing stops. The order is made while the individual is mentally capable and conscious, or by that individual's health care proxy (see below) if they are not.

health care proxy

A health care proxy — also known as a representative, surrogate, agent or durable power of attorney for health care — is a person authorized to make health care decisions on someone's behalf if they are unable to make their own. Health care proxies work closely with your health care team to ensure your care and treatment preferences are followed. Selecting a health care proxy is an important part of advance care planning (see “advance care planning” above).

hospice

A program in which an interdisciplinary team of caregivers provides comfort and support to terminally ill people when medical treatment is no longer desired, or no longer expected to cure the person or prolong their life. Hospice is provided wherever the person resides, most often at home. It is voluntary and also involves and supports the individual's family and/or loved ones. According to state reports, the majority of people who access medical aid in dying are also enrolled in hospice.

living will

A document that expresses a person's healthcare preferences if they become unable to speak for themselves. A living will is just one component of advance care planning (see “advance care planning” above).

MOLST/POLST

Stands for Medical (or Physician) Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment. An important form to provide detailed guidance about an individual's wishes for end-of-life medical care. The order is part of advance care planning and is prepared by a medical professional. Be sure this form is placed in a visible and memorable location, such as on a refrigerator, so it can easily be found during an emergency.

palliative sedation

Palliative sedation — also referred to as terminal sedation — is the continuous administration of intravenous or subcutaneous medication to reduce consciousness in a person and relieve severe, intractable symptoms that cannot be otherwise controlled with less invasive interventions.

Typically, the person remains unconscious until death. This process must be managed carefully by a medical team.

prognosis

Prognosis refers to the likely outcome of a disease and may include an estimated time an individual has left to live. Medical aid-in-dying laws and hospice eligibility require a prognosis of six months or less.

refusing medical treatment

The legal right to decline medical treatment, even if that treatment is necessary to sustain life. These interventions can include dialysis, medications, ventilators, feeding tubes, and pacemakers.

terminally ill

When a disease or illness cannot be cured and is likely to lead to death, it is considered a terminal illness.

VSED

Stands for “voluntarily stopping eating and drinking,” a legal option for any seriously ill individual with decision-making capacity, who wishes to shorten their dying process, by refusing foods and fluids of any kind, including artificial nutrition and/or hydration.
